DETAILED ACTION

This office action is in response to applicant's communication of 1/22/2007.

Currently amended claims 1-15 and 18 are pending and rejected below.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-15 and 18 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-15 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Gabriel (U.S. Patent Number 6,544,234). Gabriel discloses an automatic self-injection device. Gabriel discloses an apparatus and method comprising an outer housing (46, 126) and inner housing (100, 96, 92 for example), a barrel (12), needle (18), plunger (28,22), energy source (94) and actions of a first mode (figures 4) in which the inner housing acts on the barrel such that, in use, the plunger and barrel are movable axially so as to move at least part of said needle out of the outer housing; a second mode (figure 5) in which the inner housing acts on the plunger but not the barrel such that, in use, said plunger is movable axially into said barrel so as to expel medicament through the needle; and a third mode (figure 15) in which the inner housing acts on neither the plunger nor the barrel such that, in use, the plunger and barrel are able to retract in order to retract the needle into the outer housing (further see paragraphs at columns 1-5).

Gabriel discloses an inner housing that includes one or more flexible "L" or "T" shaped tags (100), situated at the rear end of the inner housing (disclosed see above) and biased radially inwardly by communication with said outer housing and plunger and is moveable out of communication with the plunger when aligned with a corresponding recess in the outer housing (figures 6-9).

Gabriel discloses one or more "L" or "T" shaped tags (100) that are situated at the forward end of the inner housing and are biased radially into communication with the barrel and are moveable out of communication with the barrel when aligned with a corresponding recess in the outer housing (see figures 3-8).

Gabriel is fully capable of having a means for allowing the inner housing to move axially only forward with respect to the outer housing by means (112).

Gabriel discloses a needle is biased to be normally wholly inside said housing by means of a spring intermediate (56) the barrel and the outer housing (figure 15) and the needle, barrel and plunger are removable from said device with a removable protective sheathed needle cover (120) which protects the needle during storage before use.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

Art Unit: 3767

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gabriel.

Gabriel discloses the claimed invention except for the energy source being a compressed gas. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have an energy source of compressed gas since it was known in the art that pneumatic driven compressed gas is an alternative means to a spring driven syringe. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made since it has been held that broadly providing a mechanical or automatic means to replace manual activity which has accomplished the same result involves only routine skill in the art. In re Venner, 120 USPQ 192 (CCPA 1958).
